Speeded Pullout Could End War By Late Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest Vietnam troop-withdrawal order sets the stage for what could be an April announcement to pull back another 35,000 to 45,000 troops, declare the war over and place remaining GIs in an advisory role.

Nixon announced Thursday that 70,000 more troops will be withdrawn by May 1, leaving the United States with the residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 men indicated by the President two weeks ago.

Thursday's announcement, covering February, March and April withdrawals, will reduce the U.S. commitment in Vietnam to 69,000 men on May 1. And the President said he will make another pullout announcement before that date.

This is likely to come in mid-April, leaving 35,000 men to withdraw before reaching this summer's planned residual-force level. That level is expected to be maintained until U.S. prisoners are freed by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

This would be in keeping with the troop-withdrawal plan drawn up by the administration in early 1969. Although administration officials dropped hints from time to time that the President was reviewing the plan and might delay further withdrawal decisions as a means of keeping the enemy guessing, there has been little deviation from the original plan.

Under the phaseout program, the residual force would revert to an advisory role to assist the South Vietnamese, as was done before the big U.S. buildup began in 1965.

And, to enhance the idea that the ground war is over for the Americans, the U.S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV), would be downgraded to an assistance group.

Laird Plunges Into Politics With Slam At HHH, Muskie

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird only two weeks into this presidential-campaign year to climb off his nonpolitical perch.

Laird has been giving the impression for some time that he would stay above the political battle in 1972. That's been the traditional stance of secretaries of Defense and State.

But there were skeptics who knew of Laird's unabashed love of politics, his zest for partisan cut-and-thrust while a GOP leader in Congress and a top strategist in past Republican presidential campaigns.

So there was little surprise Thursday when Laird took out after Sens. Edmund Muskie of Maine, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and other Democratic presidential hopefuls who have been demanding that President Nixon withdraw all American troops from Vietnam by a fixed date, and soon.

"When we took office in 1969 there was no program to withdraw American forces from Vietnam," Laird told White House reporters.

"Strangely enough, some of those individuals that are going around the country today criticizing programs to withdraw Americans from Vietnam were silent in 1968 and before when we were on the escalator, going up and up and up . . .

"Now that we are going down, down, down, seems that they have changed their position and are critical of the President and the program . . . to withdraw Americans from Southeast Asia and from Vietnam."

Hong Kong Flu Back In Town

Report Illness In 22 States

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The bug is back.

And, "if you just feel like hell, you've probably got the flu," says a spokesman for the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Hong Kong flu, which killed 27,900 persons the last time it toured the United States in 1968-69, has returned, the center says.

The first signs of a flu epidemic appeared several weeks ago and a nationwide survey conducted by the center revealed that Hong Kong flu has been diagnosed in 22 states, the District of Columbia and New York City.

The center said there are two major types of influenza viruses making the round this winter—type A2 Hong Kong and type B. The victim, however, can't tell the difference; the viruses are distinguishable only in the laboratory.

The center said that, of the confirmed Hong Kong cases this year, the outbreak is widespread only in Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey. Regional outbreaks are reported in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Isolated cases have been found in the District of Columbia, New York City, Maine, Vermont, New York State, Illinois, Ohio, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Florida, Tennessee, Texas, Louisiana, Colorado, Utah, Montana, California and Oregon.

U.S. Solon Is Ousted By Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Rep. James H. Scheuer, who met here with a Jewish professor, was ordered today to leave the Soviet Union.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the New York Democrat was accused of improper behavior and of "urging Soviet citizens to emigrate."

Scheuer came to the Soviet Union as a member of a seven-man congressional subcommittee to study Soviet education. The subcommittee ended its two-week tour on Wednesday. That night Scheuer went to the apartment of the professor and was picked up there by the secret police. He was released later.

Scheuer went to Leningrad on Thursday and is believed to still be there.

An embassy spokesman said a U.S. official was summoned to the Foreign Ministry this morning and told of the expulsion order. He added that Scheuer would probably leave the Soviet Union for Leningrad rather than come back to Moscow, but that no deadline had been set for Scheuer's departure.

Scheuer was having dinner at the home of Prof. Alexander Lerner when he was taken into custody by two Soviet policemen.

He told newsmen after his two-hour detention that the policemen came to the Lerner's door and said they were searching the neighborhood for a criminal who might be masquerading as a foreigner.

Youth Must Pay Funeral

CINCINNATI (AP) — Steven Farmer, 15, implicated in the death of a 16-year-old girl following a drug overdose, was ordered Thursday by Hamilton County Juvenile Judge Benjamin Schwartz to reimburse her family for the funeral expenses.

"If the young man had money to pay for drugs, he should have the money to pay for the funeral," the judge said ordering the Southgate, Ky., youth to make restitution to the parents of Carolyn Walker, of Highland Heights, Ky. The funeral reportedly cost about $1,500.

Judge Schwartz said his decision was based on a report of an investigation by the probation division of his court.

Farmer, who had pleaded guilty to the possession of a hallucinogen Jan. 5, was fined $50 and placed on probation by Judge Schwartz.

Miss Walker was found dead Aug. 13, 1971 in a downtown Cincinnati apartment.

Lima State Management Reviewed

Team To Probe Present Style Of Operation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director-designate of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, said today a hospital review team will begin a study of management practices and other procedures at Lima State Hospital next week.

Gaver said it would not be a new investigation of the hospital, but the same type of management review that has been conducted in the past at other state institutions.

In a recent state investigation of the Lima institution for the criminally insane, a special grand jury returned indictments against 31 persons, employees and former employees on charges of mistreating inmates. All are awaiting trials on the charges.

The director said the new Lima study will be conducted primarily "to be helpful" in solving management and other problems at the institution.

He said the eight-man management team will look at hiring practices, personnel procedures and procedures set up for reviewing complaints of inmates.

The team will also look at clinical programs, food service, medical records and business office procedures, Gaver said.

He said, as in any such hospital review, his department would follow up with appropriate action should the review turn up any failures on the part of officials to carry out their responsibilities. This would be the case in any management (Continued on Page 2)

$20 Million Grant Given To Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Law Enforcement Assistance Agency has awarded Cleveland an estimated $20 million to fight crime and Mayor Ralph Perk has elaborate plans for using the money.

The mayor announced his plans Thursday in Washington, where he and Police Chief Gerald Rademaker flew to be on hand when Vice President Spiro Agnew announced that Cleveland was one of eight cities to share in a $160 million crime control grant.

The funds are to be made available to the cities over the next three years in a war against burglaries and street crimes, such as mugging, rape and assault.

Perk told newsmen his initial plans call for:

- Creation of elite squads of detectives to specialize in investigating individual types of crimes.
- Establishment of special courts where suspects would be tried only a few days after their arrest.
- Rehiring of the remaining 66 policemen laid off as a result of the city's financial crisis.
- The return of 36 mounted policemen to downtown streets.
- Increasing the size of the sex crimes unit, reactivated recently.

Reds Move Missile Nests Closer To Viet Border

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese stepped up its challenge to U.S. air superiority in Indochina today by moving mobile surface-to-air missile launchers to within a few miles of the demilitarized zone, threatening American planes flying across South Vietnam.

Two new aerial engagements were reported near South Vietnam's borders. In one, an F105 fighter escorting Navy bombers fired a Shrike missile at a missile launching site this morning within three miles of the coast just above the DMZ. The U.S. Command said it was believed that the SAM site was destroyed.

It was the closest air action to South Vietnam's borders in nearly a year and the sixth so-called protective reaction strike inside North Vietnam this year.

U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese apparently are trying to harass American planes as they cross the northern part of South Vietnam to attack the supply trails in Laos.

In the second incident, an Air Force OV10 observation plane directing air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos was the target of an enemy missile while over the area of Sepone, 25 miles west of the Vietnamese borders. The pilot evaded the missile.

"The missile was fired through an overcast," the U.S. Command said, and the pilots were unable to pinpoint the launching site for a retaliatory attack.

In the ground war, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces kept up their intensified attacks on South Vietnamese outposts for the fourth day.

The South Vietnamese command reported 24 more enemy attacks for a four-day total of 110, the highest in more than three months. Most of the ac-

Army Austerity Program Behind Takeover In Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Ghana's deposed prime minister appears to have made one major mistake—he applied his austerity program to the army.

Lt. Col. I. K. Acheampong, leader of the army coup which overthrew Ghana's two-year-old civilian government Thursday, accused Prime Minister Kofi Busia of hypocrisy, government mismanagement and corruption.

He specifically charged Busia with undermining the army's morale by taking away privileges it enjoyed even in the days of Kwame Nkrumah, the free-spending dictator ousted by the army and police in February 1966.

As part of his austerity program to help pay the foreign debt of nearly $800 million that Nkrumah ran up, Busia reduced military pay and special allowances and opportunities for training overseas.

The coup was staged while Busia was in London for treatment of an eye ailment, and the officers appear to be firmly in control of Accra, the capital. But it was not clear late Thursday whether they had full control of the rest of the country.

No violence was reported, but members of Parliament and government ministers were arrested, and Busia's wife and daughter were reported being held under heavy guard at the prime minister's residence.

Normal communications links with the outside world were shut down, and most government offices were closed Thursday.

Groups of women in Accra celebrated the change of government by powdering their faces with white chalk and wearing white headbands—a

Real Estate Man Sent To Prison

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — William Riley, a former Parma real estate salesman accused of bilking home buyers, was sentenced by two Cuyahoga County Common Pleas judges Thursday to concurrent two-to-14-year terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

The sentences were passed by Judges Blanche Krupansky and Joseph Nahra.

Riley, 35, had been convicted of three counts of larceny by trick in Judge Krupansky's courtroom last October. He pleaded guilty to seven counts in Judge Nahra's courtroom in November.

Front Moves Into South From Canada

Harsh, wintry weather swept into Ohio Thursday, dumping more than three inches of snow in the Cleveland area and plunging temperatures below zero in the northwestern corner of the state this morning.

Toledo reported a low of four below zero shortly before dawn today. Temperatures across the state were forecast to drop to from five below to 10 above tonight.

Temperatures in the Cleveland area fell from 55 degrees Thursday morning to around 20 by late evening. Three inches or more covered the ground at nightfall and rush hour traffic was snarled by disabled and abandoned cars on snow-covered streets and highways.

One policeman described an Interstate 71 traffic jam as "a 12-mile-long traffic jam." Fifty Cleveland salt trucks and 10 snowplows were working at nightfall to keep the freeways clear.

While three inches was reported at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport, deeper snow was reported in snow-belt regions east of Cleveland. Snow flurries were expected to continue in the area. Little additional accumulation was expected.

Cleveland had even more trouble shortly after dusk when a power failure darkened traffic lights in downtown Cleveland. Police maintained traffic control.

Lesser amounts of snow fell elsewhere in the state. Otherwise the weather yesterday followed much the same pattern as in Cleveland.

In Columbus temperatures rose to 61 degrees shortly before noon Thursday. By late afternoon readings were in the (Continued on Page 2)

Icy sidewalks and cold, cold temperatures remain in Cleveland today following Thursday afternoon's wintry blast.

About 12:45 p.m. yesterday, with the temperature set on 52 degrees, a brief, but sudden shower of rain wet city streets.

Then the thermometer plummeted to 15 degrees, the rain started again, changed to sleet and then snow.

The result was an immediate freeze.

City and county salt trucks worked continuously to keep streets clear.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department reported no injury accidents during the period, but noted that there were at least seven motorists reported stranded as their cars slid from slippery roads.

The storm apparently drifted down from the Great Lakes region and deposited most of its snow in the north-central part of the state.

And the local weatherman said today that the cold weather was here to stay.

He noted that sunny morning skies will change to a cloud cover and snow flurries are expected in the afternoon and night.

Tonight's thermometer is expected to rest at zero, with cold and sunny weather forecast for Saturday.

Kennedy Shuns Active National Political Involvement

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, consistently mentioned as a presidential possibility despite his denials of White House aspirations, says he will not be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention this summer but will be active at the session.

In a surprise development Thursday night, Kennedy said in Boston he felt it would be misleading if he headed a slate of his state's delegates to the national convention in Miami. He said people might think it was to "serve some other purpose."

It had been expected that Kennedy would head Massachusetts' at-large convention delegate slate.

The senator filed an affidavit disavowing his candidacy, a move necessary to remove his name from the April 25 Massachusetts presidential primary ballot.

However, Kennedy said he expects to be "active over the period of the next several weeks and months and at the convention."

As candidates and noncandidates scrambled around many of the nation's 23 primary-election states—either entering or withdrawing their names—others carried on their politicking unabashedly.

Democrat George Wallace ran head-on into party stalwart Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey after launching what the Alabama governor called a people's campaign in the Florida presidential primary.

"I defeated Wallace in this state in 1968 and hope to do as well again," Humphrey, of Minnesota, told a Jacksonville audience Thursday while pushing his own campaign for the state's March 11 contest.

A dozen candidates are listed on the Florida primary ballot.

Meanwhile, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana accused the news media of slighting his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I'm only an underdog with you people," Hartke said at a New York news conference. He predicted he will win the New Hampshire primary.

On a three-day campaign swing through Wisconsin, Sen.

Henry M. Jackson of Washington maintained he offers the best hope of luring disenchanted Democrats back into the fold and of defeating President Nixon in November. Jackson is expected to compete for Wisconsin's national convention delegates in a crowded Democratic field.

As part of his austerity program to help pay the foreign debt of nearly $800 million that Nkrumah ran up, Busia reduced military pay and special allowances and opportunities for training overseas.

The coup was staged while Busia was in London for treatment of an eye ailment, and the officers appear to be firmly in control of Accra, the capital. But it was not clear late Thursday whether they had full control of the rest of the country.

No violence was reported, but members of Parliament and government ministers were arrested, and Busia's wife and daughter were reported being held under heavy guard at the prime minister's residence.

Normal communications links with the outside world were shut down, and most government offices were closed Thursday.

Groups of women in Accra celebrated the change of government by powdering their faces with white chalk and wearing white headbands—a sign of victory—while dancing in the streets.

Civil servants and other urban workers, who were particularly hard hit by Busia's austerity measures, cheered the new government as they rolled into town for work in jammed buses whose drivers honked their approval.

Real Estate Man Sent To Prison

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — William Riley, a former Parma real estate salesman accused of bilking home buyers, was sentenced by two Cuyahoga County Common Pleas judges Thursday to concurrent two-to-14-year terms in the Ohio Penitentiary.

The sentences were passed by Judges Blanche Krupansky and Joseph Nahra.

Riley, 35, had been convicted of three counts of larceny by trick in Judge Krupansky's courtroom last October. He pleaded guilty to seven counts in Judge Nahra's courtroom in November.

More Tax Reciprocity Agreements Signed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan said Thursday that reciprocal income tax agreements have been signed between Ohio and Indiana and Michigan so that people who live in one state and work in another will have to pay only one state tax.

A similar agreement with Kentucky was signed last week, and the Department of Taxation is working on pacts with West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Front Moves Into South From Canada

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Harsh, wintry weather swept into Ohio Thursday, dumping more than three inches of snow in the Cleveland area and plunging temperatures below zero in the northwestern corner of the state this morning.

Toledo reported a low of four below zero shortly before dawn today. Temperatures across the state were forecast to drop to from five below to 19 above tonight.

Temperatures in the Cleveland area fell from 55 degrees Thursday morning to around 20 by late evening. Three inches or more covered the ground at nightfall and rush hour traffic was snarled by disabled and abandoned cars on snow-covered streets and highways.

One policeman described an Interstate 71 traffic jam as "a 12-mile-long traffic jam." Fifty Cleveland salt trucks and 10 snowplows were working at nightfall to keep the freeways clear.

While three inches was reported at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport, deeper snow was reported in snow-belt regions east of Cleveland. Snow flurries were expected to continue in the area. Little additional accumulation was expected.

Cleveland had even more trouble shortly after dusk when a power failure darkened traffic lights in downtown Cleveland. Police maintained traffic control.

Lesser amounts of snow fell elsewhere in the state. Otherwise the weather yesterday followed much the same pattern as in Cleveland.

In Columbus temperatures rose to 61 degrees shortly before noon Thursday. By late afternoon readings were in the (Continued on Page 2)

Cold Wave Stays In City

Icy sidewalks and cold, cold temperatures remain in Circleville today following Thursday afternoon's wintry blast.

About 12:45 p.m. yesterday, with the temperature set on 52 degrees, a brief, but sudden shower of rain wet city streets.

Then the thermometer plummeted to 15 degrees, the rain started again, changed to sleet and then snow.

The result was an immediate freeze.

City and county salt trucks worked continuously to keep streets clear.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department reported no injury accidents during the period, but noted that there were at least seven motorists reported stranded as their cars slid from slippery roads.

The storm apparently drifted down from the Great Lakes region and deposited most of its snow in the north-central part of the state.

And the local weatherman said today that the cold weather was here to stay.

He noted that sunny morning skies will change to a cloud cover and snow flurries are expected in the afternoon and night.

Tonight's thermometer is expected to rest at zero, with cold and sunny weather forecast for Saturday.

O'Neill's Son Starts On Political Career

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — C. William O'Neill, 25, son of the Ohio Supreme Court chief justice of the same name, has announced he will be Republican candidate for state representative in the new 28th House district.

The elder O'Neill also began his political career early and was a state legislator while in college. He later became speaker of the Ohio House, attorney general and governor.

Kennedy Shuns Active National Political Involvement

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, consistently mentioned as a presidential possibility despite his denials of White House aspirations, says he will not be a delegate to the Democratic National Convention this summer but will be active at the session.

In a surprise development Thursday night, Kennedy said in Boston he felt it would be misleading if he headed a slate of his state's delegates to the national convention in Miami. He said people might think it was to "serve some other purpose."

It had been expected that Kennedy would head Massachusetts' at-large convention delegate slate.

The senator filed an affidavit disavowing his candidacy, a move necessary to remove his name from the April 23 Massachusetts presidential primary ballot.

However, Kennedy said he expects to be "active over the period of the next several weeks and months and at the convention."

As candidates and noncandidates scrambled around many of the nation's 23 primary-election states—either entering or withdrawing their names—others carried on their politicking unabashedly.

Democrat George Wallace ran headon into party stalwart Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey after launching what the Alabama governor called a people's campaign in the Florida presidential primary.

"I defeated Wallace in this state in 1963 and hope to do as well again," Humphrey, of Minnesota, told a Jacksonville audience Thursday while pushing his own campaign for the state's March 14 contest.

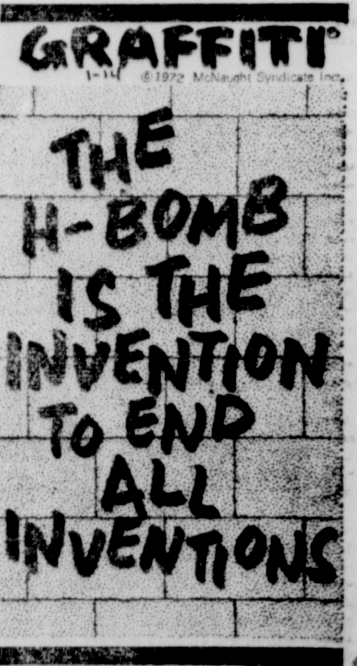

A dozen candidates are listed on the Florida primary ballot.

Meanwhile, Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana accused the news media of slighting his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. "I'm only an underdog with you people," Hartke said at a New York news conference. He predicted he will win the New Hampshire primary.

On a three-day campaign swing through Wisconsin, Sen.

Henry M. Jackson of Washington maintained he offers the best hope of luring disenchanted Democrats back into the fold and of defeating President Nixon in November. Jackson is expected to compete for Wisconsin's national convention delegates in a crowded Democratic field.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Cincinnati today issued its first public financial statement and the report said the church finished its 1971 fiscal year $183,868 in the red.

The 19-county, 555,000-member archdiocese did not report its financial condition to a survey by the National Association of Laymen issued last week. The NAL report, which was critical of many Catholic diocesan operations, listed the Cincinnati archdiocese as "incomplete."

Archbishop Paul Leibold ordered the statement prepared for the public in the "spirit" of the 1971, Archdiocesan Synod in which the laity were given representation in church affairs.

Monsignor Ralph Asplan, vicar for temporal affairs, said the present trend in costs and income indicates "serious trouble" for the archdiocese.

Assess of the archdiocese are $23.6 million, according to the report.

The report said all bills were paid through use of "funds accumulated in prior years" to make up the difference in the $2.3 million budget for the year ending June 30, 1971.

"There is no provision for responding to new demands," the Archbishop said.

He warned that the deficit means "either cutting back on services or finding new sources of income."

The budget does not include operations of individual parishes or properties and facilities owned by religious orders.

Operational income of the archdiocese includes a 3 per cent assessment on adjusted parish incomes of about $20 million a year, or $576,768 in 1970-71 the report showed.

commander in Vietnam for the past five years, and, perhaps move Abrams in as Army chief of staff when Gen. William C. Westmoreland completes his four-year tour in June.

Fears that the remaining U.S. troops would be bereft of virtually any ground fighting power were downplayed Thursday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. Although Laird indicated he expects the North Vietnamese to launch several "spectaculars" in the coming months, the secretary expressed confidence in the South Vietnamese army's ability to defend itself.

Added insurance also is provided by the American air shield, most of which is based in neighboring Thailand and aboard Navy carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin. But even with the United States out of the air and ground combat in South Vietnam, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes will continue to pound North Vietnamese supply lines over Laos and to assist friendly forces in Laos and Cambodia.

Nixon said in a televised interview Jan. 2, his goal is to end the American involvement in Vietnam before the November election—"not just because it is an election, but because these are the ways our plans are working out."

However, he emphasized that as long as the enemy holds a single American prisoner, the United States will maintain a residual force in order to retain a bargaining position for their release.

Thursday's announcement raises the monthly withdrawal rate from 22,500 to 23,300. Laird said the U.S. contingent on May 1 will be 48,000 Army troops, 16,000 Air Force men and 4,500 Navy personnel.

The May 1 level will be the lowest number of American Forces in Vietnam since the 54,000 in June 1965.

Ohio Assembly Problems Stall Pay Hike Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A partisan political fight defeated a pay raise bill for state employees early today and temporarily stymied a compromise plan to redraw Ohio into 23 congressional districts.

"As far as I'm concerned, the pay raise bill is dead," said an angry House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, after it went down to a complicated defeat on the House floor.

The vote was 53 for and 37 against. But 66 favorable votes were required to pass the bill as an emergency measure. Kurfess said the emergency clause had been put in by Democrats.

"They put it in to send back the bill," said Kurfess. An emergency clause permits legislation to go into effect upon the signature of the governor.

Otherwise it must wait 90 days before becoming law. Kurfess left the speaker's rostrum around 1:18 a.m., while the House was still in session to talk to newsmen about the setback. Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, joined the conversation, denying Kurfess' arguments.

"We didn't defeat it," Lancione said. "If they had left it the way it came out of the Senate we would have passed it," he added.

The bill called for a 10 per cent across-the-board pay raise for all state employees and provided for step increases and additional death benefits.

It also had a built in cost of living increase that would have been triggered automatically after Jan. 1, 1974, if the consumer price index had gone up 5 per cent.

The House Finance Committee kept intact the basic pay raise, but knocked out the step increases, death benefits and cost-of-living factor. It added another provision that irked some legislators.

The addition would have put a lid of $1,200 a year on any pay boost regardless of an employee's classification.

He charged that Minority Senate leader Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, promised Democrats would vote as a bloc against the emergency clause if an amendment offered by Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, were not adopted.

The amendment would have exchanged some territory between Portage and Summit Counties. It was defeated.

Despite Calabrese's contention that Democrats would vote against the emergency clause, four voted for the proposal.

"I got a lot of switch-hitters," Calabrese commented. He said he was mandated by the Democratic caucus to tell Gray they were united.

But Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, said he had let it be known in the caucus that he would not be bound to any agreement to reject the emergency clause.

Sen. Kenneth Berry, R-19 Coshocton, who was sworn in a few minutes earlier to replace Sen. James Leedy, who resigned, cast the key vote on the emergency clause.

He voted for it, assuring passage, it had failed by one vote on the same floor a day earlier after which the redistricting bill was withdrawn from a scheduled floor vote.

The over-all bill would protect 16 Republican and seven Democratic incumbents. It omits the districts of Rep. William McCulloch, R-Piqua, and Jackson Betts, R-Findlay.

That would reduce from 24 to 23 the number of Ohio's congressional districts as required by national population shifts. Republicans now control Ohio's congressional delegation 17-7.

Among bills introduced Thursday were ones that would:

—Repeal a 1965 law that keeps legislators from paying the Columbus city income tax.

—Eliminate the requirement that a newspaper must be paid for by 50 per cent of its subscribers before it can qualify for printing of legal notices.

—Create a 24-member commission to study ways to eliminate municipal income taxes and recommend alternate methods of financing.

—Exempt food sold on the premises of an establishment from the sales tax and remove the tax from labor costs on dealer preparations for retail items.

—Create an office of welfare inspector-general to watchdog welfare cases and make welfare department officials personally liable for illegally made welfare payments.

A resolution offered in the Senate called for censure of the three-judge federal court that put into effect the Democratic plan for redrawing state legislative districts.

The censure motion was offered by Sen. Paul Matia, R-25 Lakewood. It was referred to the Rules Committee where it was expected to die.

Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-16 Richwood, said earlier the measure, which would originally have cost an estimated $98 million, was sloppily written and "a bad bill."

The measure passed the Senate 30-0 last Thursday and had been tied up in his finance committee since.

Thirty-three Democrats and four Republicans voted against the measure. Forty-five Republicans and eight Democrats voted for it. Republicans control the House 54-45.

The compromise redistricting plan that had approval of both political headquarters was a matter of controversy throughout the day, first in the Senate and then in the House.

The House twice refused to concur in a Senate amendment that would have exchanged certain territory between Cuyahoga County's 20th and 23rd districts, although both congressmen in the area had approved the changes.

The bill will go back to the Senate which can either go along with the House refusal and eliminate the amendment or suggest a conference committee to work out another compromise.

The pay raise bill, however, faces an uncertain future. Kurfess said it would be up to Democrats to provide the four signatures needed for reconsideration.

Lancione said the bill was not dead and the pay raise could be approved if Republicans cooperated in reviewing it again.

"It's dead as far as I'm concerned," said Kurfess. "and the responsibility of its defeat rests solely within the minority party. Let them explain that."

Gov. John Gilligan has scheduled a 10 a.m. news conference and his legislative assistant, John McDonald, has said the governor would touch upon the controversy that surrounded action in both houses throughout the day.

The House is to reconvene at 10:30 a.m., the Senate at 11 a.m.

In other legislative action, the House passed a Senate bill that will allow delegate candidates to be grouped together on the primary ballot under the name of the presidential candidate they support.

The change was sought by Secretary of State Ted Brown to avoid confusion if delegate slates were filed for four or more Democratic presidential hopefuls.

Under current law, candidates for delegates to national party conventions must be listed alphabetically. The change will permit a voter to cast a single vote for an entire block of delegate candidates.

The Senate now must approve minor House amendments before the bill goes to Gilligan for signing.

A resolution adopted on the Senate floor commended Clayton Horn of Canton, who retired recently as executive editor of Thomson-Brush-Moore Newspapers.

Heated debate preceded Senate passage of the congressional redistricting bill.

Sen. Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, the Senate majority leader, accused Democrats of "blackmail" during the debate.

Noted Historian Arrives In Spain

SEVILLA, Spain (AP) — Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison, 84, the naval historian, has arrived here from Barcelona to retrace the 40,000 mile route of the first circumnavigation of the globe by Ferdinand Magellan 452 years ago.

The Cifra news agency said Morison was accompanied Wednesday by Mauricio Obregon, a former Colombian diplomat, aviator and explorer, who will make the voyage with him.

Speeded . . .

Fears that the remaining U.S. troops would be bereft of virtually any ground fighting power were downplayed Thursday by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. Although Laird indicated he expects the North Vietnamese to launch several "spectaculars" in the coming months, the secretary expressed confidence in the South Vietnamese army's ability to defend itself.

Added insurance also is provided by the American air shield, most of which is based in neighboring Thailand and aboard Navy carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin. But even with the United States out of the air and ground combat in South Vietnam, U.S. Air Force and Navy planes will continue to pound North Vietnamese supply lines over Laos and to assist friendly forces in Laos and Cambodia.

Nixon said in a televised interview Jan. 2, his goal is to end the American involvement in Vietnam before the November election—"not just because it is an election, but because these are the ways our plans are working out."

However, he emphasized that as long as the enemy holds a single American prisoner, the United States will maintain a residual force in order to retain a bargaining position for their release.

Thursday's announcement raises the monthly withdrawal rate from 22,500 to 23,300. Laird said the U.S. contingent on May 1 will be 48,000 Army troops, 16,000 Air Force men and 4,500 Navy personnel.

The May 1 level will be the lowest number of American Forces in Vietnam since the 54,000 in June 1965.

Kerner Arraignment Scheduled Jan. 20

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Kerner, a federal judge and former governor of Illinois, will be arraigned Jan. 20 in U.S. District Court on charges of conspiracy to commit mail fraud and bribery.

Judge Richard B. Austin, acting chief judge, said Wednesday he will preside at the arraignment of Kerner and four others charged in the case. The trial judge, Robert L. Taylor of the Eastern District of Tennessee, will be engaged in a Tennessee case until mid-February and will be unavailable for arraignment.

A highway was originally a road that stuck to high ground, well back from the shore, rivers, streams and lowlands.

Ohio Assembly Problems Stall Pay Hike Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A partisan political fight defeated a pay raise bill for state employees early today and temporarily stymied a compromise plan to redraw Ohio into 23 congressional districts.

"As far as I'm concerned, the pay raise bill is dead," said an angry House Speaker Charles Kurfess, R-4 Perrysburg, after it went down to a complicated defeat on the House floor.

The vote was 53 for and 37 against. But 66 favorable votes were required to pass the bill as an emergency measure. Kurfess said the emergency clause had been put in by Democrats.

"They put it in to send back the bill," said Kurfess. An emergency clause permits legislation to go into effect upon the signature of the governor.

Otherwise it must wait 90 days before becoming law.

Kurfess left the speaker's rostrum around 1:18 a.m., while the House was still in session to talk to newsmen about the setback. Minority Leader A. G. Lacione, D-30 Bellaire, joined the conversation, denying Kurfess' arguments.

"We didn't defeat it," Lacione said. "If they had left it the way it came out of the Senate we would have passed it," he added.

The bill called for a 10 percent across-the-board pay raise for all state employees and provided for step increases and additional death benefits.

It also had a built in cost of living increase that would have been triggered automatically after Jan. 1, 1974, if the consumer price index had gone up 5 percent.

The House Finance Committee kept intact the basic pay raise, but knocked out the step increases, death benefits and cost-of-living factor. It added another provision that irked some legislators.

The addition would have put a lid of $1,200 a year on any pay boost regardless of an employee's classification.

He charged that Minority Senate leader Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, promised Democrats would vote as a bloc against the emergency clause if an amendment offered by Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, were not adopted.

The amendment would have exchanged some territory between Portage and Summit Counties. It was defeated.

Despite Calabrese's contention that Democrats would vote against the emergency clause, four voted for the proposal.

"I got a lot of switch-hitters," Calabrese commented. He said he was mandated by the Democratic caucus to tell Gray they were united.

But Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, said he had let it be known in the caucus that he would not be bound to any agreement to reject the emergency clause.

Sen. Kenneth Berry, R-19 Coshocton, who was sworn in a few minutes earlier to replace Sen. James Leedy, who resigned, cast the key vote on the emergency clause.

He voted for it, assuring passage, it had failed by one vote on the same floor a day earlier after which the redistricting bill was withdrawn from a scheduled floor vote.

The over-all bill would protect 16 Republican and seven Democratic incumbents. It omits the districts of Rep. William McCulloch, R-Piqua, and Jackson Betts, R-Findlay.

That would reduce from 24 to 23 the number of Ohio's congressional districts as required by national population shifts. Republicans now control Ohio's congressional delegation 17-7.

Among bills introduced Thursday were ones that would:

—Repeal a 1965 law that keeps legislators from paying the Columbus city income tax.

—Eliminate the requirement that a newspaper must be paid for by 50 percent of its subscribers before it can qualify for printing of legal notices.

—Create a 24-member commission to study ways to eliminate municipal income taxes and recommend alternate methods of financing.

—Exempt food sold on the premises of an establishment from the sales tax and remove the tax from labor costs on dealer preparations for retail items.

—Create an office of welfare inspector-general to watchdog welfare cases and make welfare department officials personally liable for illegally made welfare payments.

A resolution offered in the Senate called for censure of the three-judge federal court that put into effect the Democratic plan for redrawing state legislative districts.

The censure motion was offered by Sen. Paul Matia, R-25 Lakewood. It was referred to the Rules Committee where it was expected to die.

Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-16 Richwood, said earlier the measure, which would originally have cost an estimated $98 million, was sloppily written and "a bad bill."

The measure passed the Senate 30-0 last Thursday and had been tied up in his finance committee since.

Thirty-three Democrats and four Republicans voted against the measure. Forty-five Republicans and eight Democrats voted for it. Republicans control the House 54-45.

The compromise redistricting plan that had approval of both political headquarters was a matter of controversy throughout the day, first in the Senate and then in the House.

The House twice refused to concur in a Senate amendment that would have exchanged certain territory between Cuyahoga County's 20th and 23rd districts, although both congressmen in the area had approved the changes.

The bill will go back to the Senate which can either go along with the House refusal and eliminate the amendment or suggest a conference committee to work out another compromise.

The pay raise bill, however, faces an uncertain future. Kurfess said it would be up to Democrats to provide the four signatures needed for reconsideration.

Lacione said the bill was not dead and the pay raise could be approved if Republicans cooperated in reviewing it again.

"It's dead as far as I'm concerned," said Kurfess. "And the responsibility of its defeat rests solely within the minority party. Let them explain that."

Gov. John Gilligan has scheduled a 10 a.m. news conference and his legislative assistant, John McDonald, has said the governor would touch upon the controversy that surrounded action in both houses throughout the day.

The House is to reconvene at 10:30 a.m., the Senate at 11 a.m.

In other legislative action, the House passed a Senate bill that will allow delegate candidates to be grouped together on the primary ballot under the name of the presidential candidate they support.

The change was sought by Secretary of State Ted Brown to avoid confusion if delegate slates were filed for four or more Democratic presidential hopefuls.

Under current law, candidates for delegates to national party conventions must be listed alphabetically. The change will permit a voter to cast a single vote for an entire block of delegate candidates.

The Senate now must approve minor House amendments before the bill goes to Gilligan for signing.

A resolution adopted on the Senate floor commended Clayton Horn of Canton, who retired recently as executive editor of Thomson-Brush-Moore Newspapers.

Heated debate preceded Senate passage of the congressional redistricting bill.

Sen. Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, the Senate majority leader, accused Democrats of "blackmail" during the debate.

GOP Delegates Name Woman 'Favorite Son'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Republican party has named a woman as a "favorite son" candidate for President.

The party's executive committee at a meeting here Thursday named national committeewoman Martha Moore as the second presidential choice of the ten at-large delegate candidates the committee also named.

The selection was largely honorary, since all ten candidates are pledged to President Nixon. But it was necessary to name a second choice because state law requires each delegate to list one.

State Party Chairman John Andrews called the selection of a woman for the honor "a great step, one of which we are extremely proud."

At-large delegates named by the committee were:

U. S. Sens. William Saxbe and Robert Taft Jr., national committeeman Ray Bliss, state GOP chairman John Andrews, party finance chairman T. Spencer Shore, Lt. Gov. John Brown, Secretary of State Ted Brown, Senate Majority Leader Ted Gray, R-3 Piqua, House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess, R-4 Perryburg, and former Gov. James Rhodes.

Ohio will have 56 delegates at the party's national convention and 56 alternates. Ten delegates will be elected at-large, with two each from the 23 newly-drawn congressional districts.

Andrews said he didn't know how many delegate candidates would be opposed by supporters of Nixon opponents Sen. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., and U.S. Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio. But he said they would win "very few" of the 56 seats from Nixon.

Andrews said mayors, congressmen and other GOP notables were considered for the at-large slots, but the committee decided to choose delegates who had a role of statewide importance within the party.

Sato Quotes Nixon On Treaty Outlook

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato today quoted President Nixon as saying "I have no confidence" in convincing Communist China and France to sign the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Sato said Nixon made the statement last week when the two leaders held a two-day summit meeting at San Clemente, Calif.

Sato spoke to young members of his Liberal Democratic party.

Parents Back War Evader Sons

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — More and more, they're speaking up. Parents are talking openly of sons who have gone to prison or fled rather than serve in the Vietnam war. These elders no longer are ashamed of it. They've decided their sons are right.

"I tried to talk him out of it, for I knew how high a price he would pay," recalls the Rev. Alexander C. Wilson, of Burgettstown, Pa. "I realize now that ... I was asking him to fudge, to forfeit his convictions, and he would not do it."

So now the young man is classified a "deserter" — a fugitive from his homeland.

It's the kind of situation about which many parents, some of them clergymen, are increasingly baring their personal feelings, equating teachings of their homes and churches with the stands taken by their young about the war.

"Why speak now?" asks the Rev. Dr. G. Wayne Glick, president of Keuka College, Keuka Park, N.Y., and father of an indicted war resister. "Because I believe our Christian faith demands that issues, once seen, must be faced."

Although most major religious bodies, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, have urged draft law changes recognizing the right of "selective conscientious objection" to a specific war, the appeals so far have gone unheeded.

Thousands of young men, unable to say honestly that they have pacifist objections to all wars so as to meet present requirements for conscientious objector's status, have been jailed or self-exiled rather than serve in Vietnam.

Several church organizations have urged amnesty for these young men—an estimated 500 in prison, 60,000 in Canada and several hundred in Sweden. But present government policy is against it.

Under the circumstances, says the Rev. Mr. Wilson, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian church in Burgettstown, his son can't "come home again."

Diahann Carroll Set To Leave Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Diahann Carroll was to be released today from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where she has been undergoing treatment for a bladder infection, a spokesman says.

Miss Carroll is under doctor's orders to get a complete rest, her spokesman added.

Somehow, "I failed my son," he writes in the denominational monthly, Presbyterian Life. "I taught my son enough Christian ethics to get him into trouble. But I failed to insist upon standards in our own country that would allow him to live by those ethics here."

A Roman Catholic couple,

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Macedonio, Williston Park, N.Y., who have lost one son killed in Vietnam, say they plan to move their whole family of nine other children to Canada so the younger sons won't face the draft.

Macedonio says he had never openly opposed the war "until it hit home."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Diahann Carroll was to be released today from Cedars of Lebanon Hospital where she has been undergoing treatment for a bladder infection, a spokesman says.

Miss Carroll is under doctor's orders to get a complete rest, her spokesman added.

Somehow, "I failed my son," he writes in the denominational monthly, Presbyterian Life. "I taught my son enough Christian ethics to get him into trouble. But I failed to insist upon standards in our own country that would allow him to live by those ethics here."

A Roman Catholic couple,

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Macedonio, Williston Park, N.Y., who have lost one son killed in Vietnam, say they plan to move their whole family of nine other children to Canada so the younger sons won't face the draft.

Macedonio says he had never openly opposed the war "until it hit home."

Price Rollbacks

So surprising is it to learn of a major price reduction by a prime industry that the price rollbacks flitting through the American steel industry have captured the country's imagination. No less interesting is the reason given by U.S. Steel — long the price-trend setter in the domestic market.

Competitive pressures were named by the giant steelmaker for price reductions on products used in such industries as automotive, appliance and construction. Before U.S. Steel's action, however, price realignments had begun among other steel manufacturers.

Of further significance is the timing of the reductions, which came less than a month after price increases had been announced by U.S. Steel on many of the same product lines. The reductions in most instances were not as large as the earlier increases, leaving somewhat higher prices as the net effect.

Still, a major move has been made to trim prices. That is an encouraging sign in the continuing battle against inflation. In many industries it is not enough to hold the line on prices at a level which is clearly uncompetitive with imports and other domestic materials against which steel also competes.

Increased efficiency translated into greater productivity and cost reductions is the key to sound growth. The era in which added costs can simply be passed on to the consumer has passed.

Gnus In Newspapers

Every day millions of daily newspaper readers in the United States manage to get around to a department which began as a desperate effort of an editor to fill blank space, was considered a joke by his contemporaries, and today appears in most daily and weeklies.

A birthday has been celebrated by the crossword puzzle. Fifty-eight years ago, New York World Editor Arthur Wynne filled up a corner of a page with a 72-word, diamond shaped "word-cross puzzle," as he called it.

Reception was both cool and derisive. Readers couldn't work the puzzle because printers had mixed up the definitions.

From that inauspicious start has come an institution. Whether it is admired as a tempting morsel of intellectual stimulation, as a temporary diversion from reality or as an hours-long challenge to be overcome, the crossword puzzle is more permanently rooted today than ever.

NATO Quandary

The health of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, like that of so many other defense arrangements in the free world, is not exactly robust. But it is still the best Western Europe can offer against aggression.

It should not be further weakened in the drive toward a detente with the East.

Such a weakening process is a possibility with both West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and President Nixon seeking some kind of detente with the Soviet Union. At their Key Biscayne conference the Chancellor and the President issued a statement indicating their continued support of NATO.

"Common defense through NATO is an essential component of both U.S. and German policy," the joint statement emphasized.

But it will be increasingly difficult to bolster NATO's sagging structure in a diplomatic climate which seeks to play down the confrontation of opposing forces in Europe.

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to forego that temptation to clear the atmosphere by some big argument or discussion. Make a special point of letting those about know that you like them and want to get along in peace and harmony. Otherwise this can be a day of estrangements and separations that are for little purpose.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to be most careful of your good name today, especially where higher-ups are concerned. Even false appearances could lead to trouble. Make sure you get your bills paid.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to make new acquaintances, get into new outlets, activities, but fine for clearing your desk of work. Impress associates with your ability to complete what you have started. Gain their goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Dig right into all those responsibilities that have to be gotten behind you quickly and get them done, despite any irritation you may feel. Don't lose your temper with mate. Show you have willpower.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An associate could make biting remarks because of trouble at home, so do not argue and save an otherwise good partnership. Gain goodwill of others by keeping your word to them. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You had better get those duties attended to at home even though you want to go out for usual Saturday recreation. Don't expect help from allies, who are in a rather bad mood now. Evening is fine for light recreation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to put worries aside and get out with congenials and entertain them, and vice versa. Good pals give good ideas. Mull them over well before putting them in operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can get rid of whatever it is that is causing friction at home now, and should do so. Do this quietly and not through argument. An evening spent with family can be most enjoyable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to take much care in driving today when you are in the mood to dash around visiting here and there. Let your conversation be edifying, but don't get smart-alecky, no matter what the provocation. Think of feelings of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It's fine to add to present prosperity, but don't spend your money unwisely. Don't jeopardize present holdings, either. A good day for studying whatever is of a practical nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There is some situation that you can do little about right now, so stop getting all upset over it. Plan how to improve personal affairs so you have more peace and harmony. Now is the time to plan that trip, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you think you are overburdened with work, if you get right at it, you find you still have free time left over for social activities. Nothing could be worse than self-pity right now. Avoid some situation that is fraught with danger.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to see certain friends and get something off your chest, but it is not a good day for such. Study the matter well and see if you aren't at fault instead. Go after some personal aim that is easy to attain now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN

today . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who early in life feels that all opposition should be met with stiff physical resistance, so teach while young that the diplomatic approach toward others yields far more satisfying results. Give little tasks to perform at home early. Provide enough sports to teach off the excessive energy that is in this nature and to teach fair play and sportsmanship. An ideal chart for the troubleshooter, the professional fighter, etc.

The advances of eye surgery have been spectacular in the last 20 years.

Cataract surgery, once considered potentially hazardous, is now, in uncomplicated cases, routine, rewarding and sight-restoring.

Progress continues unabated in seeking new ways to extract cataracts simply, and to reduce the period of convalescence.

A by-product of the NASA research program is a small device that can liquefy the cataract, and remove the clouded lens by pumping out the fluid.

Experimenters with this instrument are most enthusiastic about the results.

It is hoped that, when completely verified, this operation will be added to many of the safe ones now being performed successfully all over the world.

Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics at the University of California in San Diego, has devised a test that is said to be 100 per cent accurate in predicting whether an infant will be born with normal breathing. This is of great importance for children born with respiratory distress. Hyaline membrane disease is a threat to some children. By knowing in advance the lung development of the unborn child, doctors are in a better position to save the lives of these children.

Blood clots in the body can now be located within hours after they develop.

Dr. Mary Ann Dugan, of Temple University Medical School in Philadelphia, has developed a technique that seeks and finds blood clots, and even melts them away in some cases.

Radio isotopes, a by-product of atomic energy studies, are attached to special enzymes and injected into the bloodstream. By X-ray, these radioactive drugs are followed and traced to the site of the blood clot.

At present, these brilliant studies are being carried experimentally in animals. However, before long this valuable guide may be effectively used in humans.

Auto Safety Costs To Hit Consumer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're shopping for a new family car this year, you may pay an extra $25 to $36 for safety.

The government has told three major American automakers they can pass along to the consumer the cost of new safety devices included as standard equipment on 1972 models.

Schools And Property Tax

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The state courts of California and Texas have decided that the property tax is an inequitable method of financing schools. The reasoning is that boys and girls of school age are denied equal protection of the laws when wealthy communities can pay more for education than the poorer areas can afford.

The fact that there are educational inequities is incontestable, but if the Fourteenth Amendment is to be twisted to guarantee the same services in every school district of the country, it won't be long before the citizens of one village are suing because the town down the pike has a better sewage system or better roads or more adequate police protection. There is no end to the deadening centralism that could result when egalitarianism between districts becomes a matter of court guarantee.

Harold Howe, a former Newton, Mass., high school principal who has served as U.S. Education Commissioner and now works for the Ford Foundation, rather likes the California court decision. He has said so in a Saturday Review article. But his own experience in Newton should have taught him to beware of a law that would try to level out the school systems of America.

Some 12 years ago I visited Harold Howe's high school and was struck by the innovative spirit that is exemplified. Precisely because Mr. Howe's Newton and other suburban school systems of the time were willing to pay for experiments, even the "experiment" of returning to some older systems of reading instruction discarded in the permissive John Dewey era, we had an upgrading of the whole educational atmosphere. The poorer school districts got the benefit of the pioneering done in communities with stronger property bases. The "new math" didn't take form in slum schools, but today the slum school can make use of it.

I have watched the introduction of a first-rate system of reading instruction in a poor school in New York's Borough of the Bronx. The system was developed elsewhere by people who could afford to pay for testing it. The Dick and Jane readers that were in use almost everywhere a few years ago were bad. They would not have been displaced if there hadn't been cantankerous — and richer — school districts to demand something different.

In short, it is competition that guarantees people a better shake over the long term than any mechanical interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment could possibly provide. If the Supreme Court of New York State should follow the California example, what would happen, say, to the school system of Bronxville, which prides itself on its superiority? Would the citizens of Bronxville be forced to pay an equalization fee of some sort, through high progressive income taxes, to "level up" country schools in the Catskills or Adirondacks? If so, could Bronxville maintain its own ideas of educational excellence? And if not, wouldn't we be running the risk that Bronxville's loss would ultimately hurt the Catskill school simply because competition between communities to develop better methods had ceased?

Surely the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment was never designed to see that everyone gets the same public services everywhere. It is enough that people are free under the law to move from community to community. Within a given political taxing unit there should be equal access to public services. But if Baltimore, say, wants to flout the memory of H. L. Mencken by maintaining public tennis courts, is this any reason the Fourteenth Amendment should be invoked to give equal access to tennis courts to citizens of Silver Spring, Md.?

I know I am reaching for a silly extreme, but when a law is twisted out of its historical frame of reference, as the Fourteenth Amendment now is, the silly extremes usually end by becoming everyone's "right."

This does not mean I love the property tax. It is only to say that the courts have no business telling a town how it is to finance its education. If the towns can persuade the state to provide more supplementary education funds, that is something for legislative sanction. It should not be something for the courts.

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man starting out now doesn't have the pick of jobs he did a few years ago.

Getting any kind of job seems to him today about the most important thing in the world.

But there are jobs and jobs. If possible, a fellow should try his best to find one that he can fit into or grow into.

Here, for example, are some jobs we wouldn't want to risk our future in:

Teaching Casey Stengel the English language.

U.S. Marine drill sergeant of a class containing Muhammad Ali.

The fire insurance salesman who sells policies to wax museums.

A cowboy in India, where cows have the right of way at all times.

Guardian angel for Frank Sinatra.

Mayor of New York City, when everybody in town is on strike except the street chestnut vendors.

President of the United States, when half the people want you to get into a war and half of them want you to boycott it.

A bomb inspector for the Saigon police department.

A kilts salesman in Tel Aviv.

A marriage counselor in an Eskimo village.

Presidential campaign poetry adviser for former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

The men's charm school director who has the task of making Sen. Edmund Muskie look both like a matinee idol and a homespun Maine potato farmer.

A staff psychiatrist for Congress.

Men's washroom attendant at a national convention of the Women's Liberation Movement.

Entertainment chairman for any local chapter of the National Society of Embalmers.

Quality control manager of any television network.

City supervisor of morals in Las Vegas.

Protocol adviser to Martha Mitchell.

JANUARY 1932
40 YEARS AGO

Outstanding display in the Class A homes (valued under $5,000) was awarded to Mrs. Mildred Young Weller, 164 E. High St., who arranged a porch display incorporating a scene showing Santa Claus near a mantel piece. In class B homes (valued over $5,000), Karl J. Herrmann's house at 118 N. Washington St. was considered most tastefully decorated from its top to the ground level.

Many residents and taxpayers in Pickaway County were up in arms over the idea that they must spend between $15,000 and $20,000 to try four negroes and one white man charged with the brutal murder of John Kidney, well known farmer and blacksmith of this area. The five were charged with the Monroe Twp. man's murder during a burglary attempt.

Little background bits appeared on local personages who had earned distinction, like this: Paul D. Helwagen, former city treasurer, was born in Williamsport. He obtained his education at Everetts high school. The automobile business has been his chief vocation since he left school and for the past seven years he has worked at the printing business with George M. Fitzpatrick. In 1928 he entered the public office of city treasurer by appointment following the death of George Myers. At the next election he was then returned to that office.

Daniel H. Squires died at his home in Sarasota, Fla. He had been a resident of Ashville since 1880, coming here from Ontario, Canada. In Ashville he first practiced medicine, then later entered the drug business. He established a department store there under the name of D. H. Squires and Son.

Joe Lynch announced that he had booked one of basketball's feature attractions, the House of David team of Benton Harbor, Mich., to appear in Circleville at the Athletic Club. The members of the team were all bearded.

Learning the number of potentially dangerous criminals held in the confines of the county jail, grand jurors urged that additional arms be purchased immediately for Sheriff Charles Radcliff and his staff. Radcliff had been seeking the addition of a sub-machine gun and several riot guns.

Earl Rader, aged 51, died in Chillicothe city hospital from complications following an attack of pneumonia. Rader, suffering from a bad cold, became bedfast after playing golf at the local country club in early October. He lived at Fox Post Office.

As a result of a quiet investigation, a number of school boys were expected to undergo rigid disciplining. The high school aged youths were reported to have been literally "kidnapping" fellow students, taking them into rural area, forcing them from the automobiles and leaving them to reach their homes the best way they could. Black eyes, bloodied noses and torn clothing were common.

From a "Did You Know?" column: That Elm Ave. received its name from the fact that two elm trees at one time stood between the Charles Eaton and Jerry Moore properties. The street received its name from these two trees.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — As "anonymous" once said, "The Internal Revenue Service should be mighty glad the taxpayers have what it takes."

The taxpayers always have come through. They always have had what it takes and the government has always taken what they had, although sometimes not without considerable resistance.

Every so often that resistance reaches the point of rebelliousness, and one of those times seems to be now. Smoldering tax revolts have erupted from time to time, especially in regard to expensive school bond issues.

Does this mean that taxes will have to be appreciably lowered? Likely not. But the name of the tax, the type of tax and the taxed may have to be changed. That's the game's name. Innovation knows no limits in taxation.

One of the newer candidates for consideration is the value added tax, under which a product is taxed according to the value added—cost versus selling price—at each stage of production, thus assuring a constant relationship between tax and product value.

Such a concept is really not new. It was considered in the United States as early as the 1920s and actually was put into use, but later repealed, in Michigan. It is used throughout the Common Market countries.

Now the Nixon administration indicates it is seriously thinking of VAT to finance the nation's schools in case the Supreme Court rules that it is unconstitutional to support local schools through property taxes.

The arguments for such a tax are numerous, but perhaps were summed up by Richard Lindholm, a tax authority, professor and administrator, in an article he wrote for the Tax Foundation:

"VAT treats the production of land, labor, capital and entrepreneurship equally.

"The base of VAT is as broad as the Gross National Product and therefore very stable.

"Payments of VAT are made after income from transactions has been received.

"Under VAT, all businesses are treated the same, no matter how organized, financed or type of economic activity."

In Lindholm's view, the federal corporate profits tax discourages efficiency and encourages monopolies and wasteful expenditures. VAT, he argued, would permit a reduction of tax rates and administrative problems.

Some critics won't agree with such an assessment. Rather than reducing administrative problems, they say, it would add to them. But one thing is certain, a value added tax would bring more objective standards to a game that is now replete with special interest exceptions.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening to forego that temptation to clear the atmosphere by some big argument or discussion. Make a special point of letting those about you know that you like them and want to get along in peace and harmony. Otherwise this can be a day of estrangements and separations that are for little purpose.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
You have to be most careful of your good name today, especially where higher-ups are concerned. Even false appearances could lead to trouble. Make sure you get your bills paid.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
Not a good day to make new acquaintances, get into new outlets, activities, but fine for clearing your desk of work. Impress associates with your ability to complete what you have started. Gain their goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
Dig right into all those responsibilities that have to be gotten behind you quickly and get them done, despite any irritation you may feel. Don't lose your temper with mate. Show you have willpower.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
An associate could make biting remarks because of trouble at home, so do not argue and save an otherwise good partnership. Gain goodwill of others by keeping your word to them. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
You had better get those duties attended to at home even though you want to go out for usual Saturday recreation. Don't expect help from allies, who are in a rather bad mood now. Evening is fine for light recreation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
A good day to put worries aside and get out with congenials and entertain them, and vice versa. Good pals give good ideas. Mull them over well before putting them in operation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You can get rid of whatever it is that is causing friction at home now, and should do so. Do this quietly and not through argument. An evening spent with family can be most enjoyable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
You have to take much care in driving today when you are in the mood to dash around visiting here and there. Let your conversation be edifying, but don't get smart-alecky, no matter what the provocation. Think of feelings of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
It's fine to add to present prosperity, but don't spend your money unwisely. Don't jeopardize present holdings, either. A good day for studying whatever is of a practical nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
There is some situation that you can do little about right now, so stop getting all upset over it. Plan how to improve personal affairs so you have more peace and harmony. Now is the time to plan that trip, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Although you think you are overburdened with work, if you get right at it, you find you still have free time left over for social activities. Nothing could be worse than self-pity right now. Avoid some situation that is fraught with danger.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
You want to see certain friends and get something off your chest, but it is not a good day for such. Study the matter well and see if you aren't at fault instead. Go after some personal aim that is easy to attain now. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN today . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who early in life feels that all opposition should be met with stiff physical resistance, so teach while young that the diplomatic approach toward others yields far more satisfying results. Give little tasks to perform at home early. Provide enough sports to work off the excessive energy that is in this nature and to teach fair play and sportsmanship. An ideal chart for the troubleshooter, the professional fighter, etc.

The advances of eye surgery have been spectacular in the last 20 years.

Cataract surgery, once considered potentially hazardous, is now, in uncomplicated cases, routine, rewarding and sight-restoring.

Progress continues unabated in seeking new ways to extract cataracts simply, and to reduce the period of convalescence.

A by-product of the NASA research program is a small device that can liquefy the cataract, and remove the clouded lens by pumping out the fluid.

Experimenters with this instrument are most enthusiastic about the results.

It is hoped that, when completely verified, this operation will be added to many of the safe ones now being performed successfully all over the world.

Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics at the University of California in San Diego, has devised a test that is said to be 100 per cent accurate in predicting whether an infant will be born with normal breathing. This is of great importance for children born with respiratory distress.

Hyaline membrane disease is a threat to some children. By knowing in advance the lung development of the unborn child, doctors are in a better position to save the lives of these children.

Blood clots in the body can now be located within hours after they develop.

Dr. Mary Ann Dugan, of Temple University Medical School in Philadelphia, has developed a technique that seeks and finds blood clots, and even melts them away in some cases.

Radio isotopes, a by-product of atomic energy studies, are attached to special enzymes and injected into the bloodstream. By X-ray, these radioactive drugs are followed and traced to the site of the blood clot.

At present, these brilliant studies are being carried experimentally in animals. However, before long this valuable guide may be effectively used in humans.

Auto Safety Costs To Hit Consumer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're shopping for a new family car this year, you may pay an extra $25 to $36 for safety.

The government has told three major American auto-makers they can pass along to the consumer the cost of new safety devices included as standard equipment on 1972 models.

Schools And Property Tax

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The state courts of California and Texas have decided that the property tax is an inequitable method of financing schools. The reasoning is that boys and girls of school age are denied equal protection of the laws when wealthy communities can pay more for education than the poorer areas can afford.

The fact that there are educational inequities is incontestable, but if the Fourteenth Amendment is to be twisted to guarantee the same services in every school district of the country, it won't be long before the citizens of one village are suing because the town down the pike has a better sewage system or better roads or more adequate police protection. There is no end to the deadening centralism that could result when egalitarianism between districts becomes a matter of court guarantee.

Harold Howe, a former Newton, Mass., high school principal who has served as U.S. Education Commissioner and now works for the Ford Foundation, rather likes the California court decision. He has said so in a Saturday Review article. But his own experience in Newton should have taught him to beware of a law that would try to level out the school systems of America.

Some 12 years ago I visited Harold Howe's high school and was struck by the innovative spirit that is exemplified. Precisely because Mr. Howe's Newton and other suburban school systems of the time were willing to pay for experiments, even the "experiment" of returning to some older systems of reading instruction discarded in the permissive John Dewey era, we had an upgrading of the whole educational atmosphere. The poorer school districts got the benefit of the pioneering done in communities with stronger property bases. The "new math" didn't take form in slum schools, but today the slum school can make use of it.

I have watched the introduction of a first-rate system of reading instruction in a poor school in New York's Borough of the Bronx. The system was developed elsewhere by people who could afford to pay for testing it. The Dick and Jane readers that were in use almost everywhere a few years ago were bad. They would not have been displaced if there hadn't been cantankerous — and richer — school districts to demand something different.

In short, it is competition that guarantees people a better shake over the long term than any mechanical interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment could possibly provide. If the Supreme Court of New York State should follow the California example, what would happen, say, to the school system of Bronxville, which prides itself on its superiority? Would the citizens of Bronxville be forced to pay an equalization fee of some sort, through high progressive income taxes, to "level up" country schools in the Catskills or Adirondacks? If so, could Bronxville maintain its own ideas of educational excellence? And if not, wouldn't we be running the risk that Bronxville's loss would ultimately hurt the Catskill school simply because competition between communities to develop better methods had ceased?

Surely the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment was never designed to see that everyone gets the same public services everywhere. It is enough that people are free under the law to move from community to community. Within a given political taxing unit there should be equal access to public services. But if Baltimore, say, wants to flout the memory of H. L. Mencken by maintaining public tennis courts, is this any reason the Fourteenth Amendment should be invoked to give equal access to tennis courts to citizens of Silver Spring, Md.?

I know I am reaching for a silly extreme, but when a law is twisted out of its historical frame of reference, as the Fourteenth Amendment now is, the silly extremes usually end by becoming everyone's "right."

This does not mean I love the property tax. It is only to say that the courts have no business telling a town how it is to finance its education. If the towns can persuade the state to provide more supplementary education funds, that is something for legislative sanction. It should not be something for the courts.

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man starting out now doesn't have the pick of jobs he did a few years ago.

Getting any kind of job seems to him today about the most important thing in the world.

But there are jobs and jobs. If possible, a fellow should try his best to find one that he can fit into or grow into.

Here, for example, are some jobs we wouldn't want to risk our future in:

Teaching Casey Stengel the English language.

U.S. Marine drill sergeant of a class containing Muhammad Ali.

The fire insurance salesman who sells policies to wax museums.

A cowboy in India, where cows have the right of way at all times.

Guardian angel for Frank Sinatra.

Mayor of New York City, when everybody in town is on strike except the street chestnut vendors.

President of the United States, when half the people want you to get into a war and half of them want you to boycott it.

A bomb inspector for the Saigon police department.

A kilt salesman in Tel Aviv.

A marriage counselor in an Eskimo village.

Presidential campaign poetry adviser for former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

The men's charm school director who has the task of making Sen. Edmund Muskie look both like a matinee idol and a homespun Maine potato farmer.

A staff psychiatrist for Congress.

Men's washroom attendant at a national convention of the Women's Liberation Movement.

Entertainment chairman for any local chapter of the National Society of Embalmers.

Quality control manager of any television network.

City supervisor of morals in Las Vegas.

Protocol adviser to Martha Mitchell.

Leader of an emergency expedition to rescue the sinking U.S. dollar.

Barber in a hippie commune.

Tailor in a nudist colony.

Yes, there are some jobs that make a guy feel he'd be better off without — and just live on his unemployment checks.

JANUARY 1932
40 YEARS AGO

Outstanding display in the Class A homes (valued under $5,000) was awarded to Mrs. Mildred Young Weller, 164 E. High St., who arranged a porch display incorporating a scene showing Santa Claus near a mantel piece. In class B houses (valued over $5,000), Karl J. Herrmann's house at 118 N. Washington St. was considered most tastefully decorated from its top to the ground level.

Many residents and taxpayers in Pickaway County were up in arms over the idea that they must spend between $15,000 and $20,000 to try four negroes and one white man charged with the brutal murder of John Kidney, well known farmer and blacksmith of this area. The five were charged with the Monroe Twp. man's murder during a burglary attempt.

Little background bits appeared on local personages who had earned distinction, like this: Paul D. Helwagen, former city treasurer, was born in Williamsport. He obtained his education at Everett's high school. The automobile business has been his chief vocation since he left school and for the past seven years he has worked at the printing business with George M. Fitzpatrick. In 1928 he entered the public office of city treasurer by appointment following the death of George Myers. At the next election he was then returned to that office.

Daniel H. Squires died at his home in Sarasota, Fla. He had been a resident of Ashville since 1880, coming here from Ontario, Canada. In Ashville he first practiced medicine, then later entered the drug business. He established a department store

there under the name of D. H. Squires and Son.

Joe Lynch announced that he had booked one of basketball's feature attractions, the House of David team of Benton Harbor, Mich., to appear in Circleville at the Athletic Club. The members of the team were all bearded.

Learning the number of potentially dangerous criminals held in the confines of the county jail, grand jurors urged that additional arms be purchased immediately for Sheriff Charles Radcliff and his staff. Radcliff had been seeking the addition of a sub-machine gun and several riot guns.

Earl Rader, aged 51, died in Chillicothe city hospital from complications following an attack of pneumonia. Rader, suffering from a bad cold, became bedfast after playing golf at the local country club in early October. He lived at Fox Post Office.

As a result of a quiet investigation, a number of school boys were expected to undergo rigid disciplining. The high school aged youths were reported to have been literally "kidnapping" fellow students, taking them into rural area, forcing them from the automobiles and leaving them to reach their homes the best way they could. Black eyes, bloodied noses and torn clothing were common.

From a "Did You Know?" column: That Elm Ave. received its name from the fact that two elm trees at one time stood between the Charles Eaton and Jerry Moore properties. The street received its name from these two trees.

C Of C Joins Schools In New Program

Circleville School administrators and Chamber of Commerce committee members have arranged a joint meeting today to discuss the need and content for a Consumer Economics Course that would involve all grades, kindergarten through grade 12.

This is the second meeting of the groups. It is anticipated that today's session will be successful in preparing sufficient material to begin setting up a consumer economic program for the 1972-73 school term.

Possibilities being considered, Superintendent Fritz Jacobs noted, were to establish courses covering several weeks in the high school and junior high and implement a general program to assist elementary-age students in learning about the loan process, savings, insurance, investments, budgeting, purchasing and service, legal matters, all types of taxation, real estate, advantages and disadvantages of seasonal sales, banking — checking accounts and such, advanced education and medical service.

School officials requested the Chamber's assistance in developing the program which they believe will be a valuable part of the students' training to prepare them for management of their own income and lives in the future. It is hoped that a Chamber committee will be able to provide business persons to serve as resource persons who might assist the teachers in instructing the young boys and girls in the consumer economics curriculum.

OSU Presidential Choices Said Not Interested In Job

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two educators mentioned as top candidates for appointment as president of Ohio State University are not interested in the job, according to reports out of Iowa and Kansas.

"I am not a candidate," Willard Lee Boyd Jr., 44, president of the University of Iowa, said in Ames, Iowa, Thursday. "I am very happy at the University of Iowa."

An aide to Edwin Laurence Chalmers, 43, chancellor of the University of Kansas, said at Lawrence, Kan., Chalmers has no intention of leaving KO.

"There is no doubt that he (Chalmers) was under consideration by Ohio State, but there is also no doubt in my mind that he is not planning to leave," said Dr. John Conard, director of university relations at Kansas.

Ohio State is searching for a replacement for Novice Fawcett, 63, who is retiring Sept. 1. The Columbus Dispatch reported that Boyd and Chalmers are top candidates for the job.

Conard said rumors of Ohio State's interest in Chalmers came to light three weeks ago on the Lawrence campus and Chalmers made it plain then he had no interest in leaving Kansas, feeling instead he still had goals to accomplish at KU.

Chalmers could not be reached for comment.

Boyd said he has a high regard for Ohio State as a university, "but I am not considering any job there. I feel if I am going to be a university president, it will be here in Iowa next fall."

The Dispatch said the list of candidates has been narrowed to four, with the other two being H. Edwin Young, 54, chancellor of the University of Wisconsin, and William Beatty Boyd, 48, president of Central

Claim Vote For Wallace Helps Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien has attacked Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's entry into his party's Florida presidential primary, contending "a vote for George Wallace is a vote for Richard Nixon."

O'Brien said in a statement: "No one, including George Wallace, seriously believes Gov. Wallace to be legitimately contending for the Democratic presidential nomination."

But the Democratic party leader said today the Wallace candidacy is more "than a mere publicity campaign for a man who is certain to be a third-party candidate for the presidency."

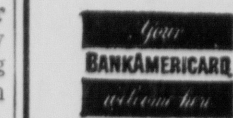

"Democrats should be aware that a Wallace candidacy plays directly into the hands of John Mitchell as he develops the only re-election strategy remaining to Richard Nixon," O'Brien said. He contended Nixon can't win a two-party race and that his only hope is a three-way contest including Wallace.

The O'Brien statement followed Wallace's formal entrance into the March 14 Florida Democratic primary, and is the first public word from top Democratic officials on a problem that has been concerning them for some time.

Seniors Take Active Part In Government

By DAN DeLONG

Basic rules of government are being taught to seniors taking American government from Miss Parker.

She has set up a mock Congress and divided her classes into the Senate and House of Representatives. Also, her classes work as the different committees of Congress. Examples of these are the Ways and Means, Defense, and Foreign Affairs.

Students were allowed to pick the party they wished to represent. Then each student drew a state out of the hat to see which state he would represent. If he did not get a state he received a card telling him he was a lobbyist for some active group. The students had to act as if they were really representing that state.

Each representative was asked to write up a bill in the prescribed form and present it to the Congress for a vote.

Speaker of the House was chosen and then chairmen of each committee were elected by each class.

Many problems, some the same as they have in Washington, have been brought to the attention of the Congress. These were quickly solved by quick, logical thinking. If lowly high school students can come up with better plans in running the government than our representatives, then maybe the men in Washington could use a refresher course in how a government should be run.

This way of teaching government is the best way to see how "efficiently" our national government works.

Tigers To Break 18-Year Curse

By KENT WOLFE

The CHS Tigers will be on the road tonight as they go to meet the Hurricane of Wilmington.

Wilmington has won only one game this season, but has one of the roughest schedules in the league. They came very close to beating a tough Xenia squad earlier in the season. Circleville is going into the game with a 5-3 record after a disappointing loss to Greenfield last weekend. They have worked hard all week, though, and will be ready for the Hurricane.

School records were recently checked and it was found that CHS has not won a game in Wilmington's gym for the last eighteen years. The Tigers will be ready to break this string tonight.

In other county action Westfall will lose to Piketon, Teays Valley will take Hamilton Township, and Logan Elm will win easily over Laurelvile.

Students Try Creative Work

Miss Meg Bower, English teacher at CHS, has been having her students do various types of writing during the past week. Two examples of these are "Dissertation Upon Teeth Braces," and "A Dissertation on the Development of the Parachute."

"According to an old Chinese journal, Chinese men, women, and children have been born with buck teeth since the very beginning of time.

Ding-Ding and Ding-Ho both, had unfortunately received this trait, as did everyone else, when they were born and their first tooth appeared. It was something that everyone simply accepted as a part of life.

As the years passed, Ding-Ding and Ding-Ho, being twin brothers, grew up together and eventually started their own restaurant in the heart of downtown. Life passed slowly and everything stayed in rather the same routine until one day the two brothers were arguing over which was to take out the new bar maid. It ended in an actual fist fight, and Ding-Ding took a big slug and knocked in Ding-Ho's teeth.

Once Ding-Ho regained consciousness, the first thing everyone noticed were his teeth. Through all the blood, it was obvious his teeth were very straight and even with the bottom ones.

Much discrepancy was made of this because everyone was fascinated with how much better he looked now.

This started nothing but trouble. The people started going around picking fights hoping to get their teeth knocked in. After hearing about what was happening, The Great Confucius, however, knew that this was not the answer to getting straight teeth. So he experimented his idea on his daughter. He took some thin strong string and tied it tightly around her upper teeth pulling them back in place.

Through the years, this idea was passed down, and because of extensive medical research our modern idea of teeth braces was developed."

"An indispensable necessity for the jumpers and such men concerned with airplanes is the parachute. It is usually carried in a pack on the back and is used to retard the falling speed of a person dropping from an airplane. When the rip cord is pulled, the canopy opens and the person is held by string attached to the chute.

Although the parachute was not widely used until the Russo-Finnish War of 1939-1940 when the Soviet Union sent parachute troops jumping into enemy-held territory, it is sincerely believed by some people to have been derived from an ancient tribe's custom.

This particular tribe dwelt in a mountainous region. Not long ago a few enthusiastic archaeologists, explored the cave dwellings where the tribes people made their home. They discovered a stone tablet with unknown writings painted in the rock. Only recently has this tablet been deciphered. A few well-known researchers have made it possible to present their discoveries.

It seems the tablet was a story of a tribesman named Muck Tuck. The following is an excerpt of the actual translated stone script.

One day with sun shining high and blinding, Muck Tuck left his cave to see the Valley below. He was sad because of the long trip he must make to reach the lake below. His woman loved the golden fish from the lake. Since there was a good supply of meat, Muck Tuck was sad to take the trip.

Three suns later Muck Tuck came back to the cave with fish he had traded with the lake people. His woman was happy. She ate the fish like a goat.

Many suns later Muck Tuck left his cave to find the white cold had come to the mountains. Soon the tribe would have to stay in the caves and not go to the Valley below. Muck Tuck was not sad. He did not like the trip to the Valley just for fish.

Muck Tuck remembered the flying squirrel in the Valley. He remembered the funny wings that let it float in the air. So one day, he started to try and make the same shape. He made it big like the sun. Muck Tuck tied animal hair rope to the skin he made big like the sun. Muck Tuck was going to use it like the flying squirrel. Then he remembered how his woman loved fish and he saw the falling snow. He told his woman to make like a squirrel and jump to the Valley with the skin. Soon she did. Muck Tuck's woman dropped for a long time. Then a wind carried her into the lake. She was not happy. Muck Tuck laughed. Now she could get her own fish.

Although this early form of the parachute depended strictly on the strength of the wind and more than half the time the wind was not favorable, it is inconceivable that the Russians could be accredited with first using the parachute."

By DON VALENTINE

This week's featured senior cager is Jim Neal, who resides with his mother, Mrs. Betty Neal, at 155 Nicholas Drive.

At five feet, nine inches, Jim is regarded as one of the best defensive players in the league. He always gets the difficult job of keeping the opponent's best guard in check and is very successful at doing it. Last year Jim came in many games to spark the Tigers to key victories.

This past summer Jim attended Ashland Basketball Camp and this, along with dedication and hard work, has earned him a starting position this year.

After graduation, Jim plans to attend Ohio University where he will make business his major.

Seniors Take Active Part In Government

By DAN DeLONG

Basic rules of government are being taught to seniors taking American government from Miss Parker.

She has set up a mock Congress and divided her classes into the Senate and House of Representatives. Also, her classes work as the different committees of Congress. Examples of these are the Ways and Means, Defense, and Foreign Affairs.

Students were allowed to pick the party they wished to represent. Then each student drew a state out of the hat to see which state he would represent. If he did not get a state he received a card telling him he was a lobbyist for some active group. The students had to act as if they were really representing that state.

Each representative was asked to write up a bill in the prescribed form and present it to the Congress for a vote.

Speaker of the House was chosen and then chairmen of each committee were elected by each class.

Many problems, some the same as they have in Washington, have been brought to the attention of the Congress. These were quickly solved by quick, logical thinking. If lowly high school students can come up with better plans in running the government than our representatives, then maybe the men in Washington could use a refresher course in how a government should be run.

The Women's Lib movement has hit the publishers and your local library. We have three new books which are strictly for the ladies. (Men, you are welcome to read them too, if you haven't given up on trying to understand us yet.)

"Modern Woman's Medical Encyclopedia" is the most comprehensive of the three. In this volume edited by Anna Mantel Fishbein, ten noted women doctors discuss intimate health problems of women. Part one is a medical adviser for women. It is comprised of ten chapters on the stages of female development beginning with birth and continuing through adolescence, marriage, the first baby and concluding with the years after sixty-five.

Part two of this book is a concise medical encyclopedia for women. It contains hundreds of definitions and explanations of medical terms, disorders and disease arranged in alphabetical order for easy reference. The great value of this book is that it is written for women — by women.

The second book is "The Menstrual Cycle" by Katharin Dalton, M. D. This book by a woman doctor explains the basic facts about the menstrual cycle and discusses its psychological and social effects on women and on men as well. It should answer all your questions about this experience a woman faces once a month for approximately thirty years of her life.

The third book is "The Pill: Facts and Fallacies About Today's Oral Contraceptives" by Robert W. Kistner, M. D. Dr. Kistner is a gynecologist who has been doing research on hormones for over twenty years. In this book he thoroughly discusses every aspect of the Pill in language that everyone can understand. He does not wish to persuade anyone to take it or not take it, but he presents the facts so that everyone can make up their own mind. He also discusses the Pill as an instrument for survival in a world beginning to feel the impact of the population explosion.

Review by Sue Edwards

Dogs Eating Better
LONDON (AP) — One member of the British household who has not suffered from rising prices is the dog. According to an advertising survey owners are buying five per cent more dog food than they were three years ago, despite a drop in the canine population.

THE NUMBER'S GAME

Here's the population explosion in personal terms. To the proud parents, it's their first child — and they love her! But to the statisticians, who deal only with cold facts, she's just one more person on an already crowded earth.

What a dilemma! We want children, but we want them to face a secure future. When almost no one is optimistic about the present, how can anyone look forward to the future?

Other generations have faced momentous problems, too. Yet, with God's help, they surmounted them.

And God — if we turn to His Church — will do the same for us!

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Bon Voyage Wreath Went To Funeral

DEAR ABBY: Now I know that I have truly seen everything! My husband and I have owned and operated a small florist shop for the last 15 years, and I have encountered some unusual situations. But the one I had yesterday beats them all.

Two middle-aged women came into the shop together and asked what I had to offer in the way of a "Bon Voyage" wreath, so I showed them what I had in my catalog. I asked if a man or a woman was going abroad, and one of the women replied, angrily: "It is for my sister's FUNERAL!"

I must have shown my amazement because she then added: "If you were a true Christian you would consider death as the beginning of a long, happy trip."

Abby, I do consider myself a Christian, and I refused to sell that woman a "Bon Voyage" wreath for her sister's funeral.

When my husband came in, I told him and he laughed and said "You should have sold it to her."

I was very upset by my husband's response as I have always considered death to be a very solemn occasion. Maybe you or some of your readers could tell me what they would have done.

SHOCKED IN ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR SHOCKED: I vote with your husband. How one views death is a highly personal matter. If the woman wanted to wish her deceased sister a happy trip, I'd have sold her a "Bon Voyage" wreath.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been friends with another couple for a number of years. We are in each other's homes frequently. Lately the woman has been doing something that I find very annoying. After we arrive at her home, by invitation, she picks up her latest knitting or needlepoint project and starts working away, stopping occasionally to count stitches, consult the instructions, and to admire her handiwork.

She does join in the conversation, but rather halfheartedly, as though she feels obligated to make a token comment now and then.

I think she is being somewhat rude. Am I right or wrong?

DEAR BUGGED: Right. She is making a statement: "The company isn't sufficiently fascinating to warrant my total attention."

Don't let the annoyance build up. Tell her, but don't use a needle.

DEAR ABBY: My wife just had a hysterectomy. Does that mean it is the end of her sex life? She is only 34.

WONDERING: Absolutely not! In fact, it could very well be the beginning of a better sex life because she no longer has the worry about becoming pregnant.

DEAR ABBY: The ink is still drying on my final divorce papers, and already the neighbors and acquaintances are nosing around as to "why" we got a divorce, and "what happened?"

It wasn't over "another woman" or "another man," and since I am the one who instigated the divorce, I am getting the "what happen" question from all sides.

I would rather not offer any explanations because I feel it's nobody's business. How can I tactfully put this message across?

SANDY: DEAR SANDY: Simply say: "If you will forgive me for not answering, I will forgive you for asking."

Views On TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS has replaced half of its canceled "Bears" with "Me and the Chimp." "Bears" was not a good show, but "Me and the Chimp" is out of place: It should be in the Saturday morning block of children's shows.

There has not been a situation comedy built around the antics of a trained chimpanzee since "The Hathaways" had a brief little go-around several seasons back.

This time, the chimp seems to be added to a standard situation comedy format. There is the usual cute wife, two darling children and a terrible tempered idiot of a husband-father. The family finds a monkey and gives it house room until its owner can be found. The chimp is named "Buttons" because it likes to push them and in the premiere program Thursday gales of laugh-track guffaws flooded out when Buttons turned on the blender, the toaster, the washing machine and even got to the adding machine when daddy was trying to balance his checking account.

It really is an abysmal, juvenile show and the only excuse for it as a midseason replacement is that CBS must have some program when the overwhelmingly popular "Flip Wilson Show" is being broadcast on NBC.

Ted Bessell, who played Marlo Thomas' fiancé in "That Girl," now plays a dentist-tooth jokes started in the first show—and straight man for the chimp, who has the best role in the series.

Another apparent sacrifice to Wilson's popularity seems to be the long-playing "My Three Sons," now moved into the half hour following the monkey business. It may be a bit tired after all the seasons in which star Fred MacMurray has progressed from widower father with young sons to dotting grandfather, but the show deserves a better break than CBS seems inclined to give it for the rest of this season.

CBS, while taking it from Wilson, is also dishing it out with "All in the Family" knocking off both Don Adams' "Partners" on NBC and "Getting Together" on ABC.

Before the week ends, three replacement series will be moving into position. NBC's "Sanford and Son," American adaptation of the British comedy hit "Steptoe and Son," will have its premiere tonight at 8 EST, while Don Rickles' new situation comedy arrives at CBS at 10:30 p.m. On Saturday ABC will launch "The Sixth Sense."

All networks have been playing musical chairs with programs so it is hard to see which show is replacing each drop-out.

Grand Jury Indicts 4 For Embezzlement

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — The Fairfield County grand jury Wednesday indicted four men on embezzlement charges in the theft of furniture products from the Riviera Products, Inc., factory here.

The four indicted were George H. Williams Jr., 24; Stephen F. Godenschwager, 27; David M. Shy, 21, and Darwin M. Cone, 23.

Flying Hospital To Go With Nixon

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tucked away in Air Force One—probably the best-cared-for plane in the country—are the tools for President Nixon's physician to insure the best care available for the chief executive.

There is equipment to handle anything from a jellyfish sting to a heart attack, says Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician. And when Nixon flies to Peking and Moscow in the coming months, Tkach or one of his aides, as usual, will be "never more than five seconds away" from the President.

Although no special supplies are being carried to Russia and China, Tkach said in an interview that special routes already have been laid out in Peking to rush Nixon to a pre-selected hospital from wherever he may be.

The procedure is routine, Tkach said.

Former presidents always have had medical gear nearby when traveling, and they too were well-looked-after by aides and the Secret Service as to what hospital would be best in an out-of-town emergency.

Ready for any eventuality on Nixon's plane, said Tkach, are:—An electrical defibrillator for potentially life-saving treatment in case of a heart attack.

—A tracheotomy set, should the President's air passage become blocked.

—And everything from splints for fractures, to ammonia water for the jellyfish stings; "all the medical emergency equipment and medical drugs required for treating practically any disease in the home and sometimes in the hospital."

Dr. Chester Ward, one of Tkach's assistants, made arrangements during a recent advance trip to Peking for the hospital that will be on standby should a medical emergency arise. Similar arrangements, along with emergency routes, are being worked out for Moscow.

Still, when split seconds count, there is a doctor at hand even before a hospital can be reached.

Firebird Spotwelds Reported Missing

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A union local at the General Motors Corp.'s Pontiac Firebird Assembly Plant in Norwood, Ohio, claims more than 1,400 1972 Firebirds are missing required spotwelds on their side structures.

The announcement of the charge today was made by members of Ralph Nader's Ohio Public Interest Action Group and his Cleveland Auto Safety Research Center on behalf of Local 674 of the United Auto Workers.

"Off the plane," Tkach said, "we ride with the Secret Service."

Inspection Of Wheels To Be Made By GM

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling 30,000 Buicks, Pontiacs and Oldsmobiles to correct a possible defect which the automaker said would "probably result in a punctured tire, similar to a blowout."

GM reported Wednesday the vehicles, all full-size 1971 models, should be examined to find about 1,250 wheels which could have been improperly welded by a wheel manufacturer during a two-day period late in the model run.

GOP Feud Continues Over Berry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Responding to criticism from fellow Republicans, State GOP Chairman John Andrews said Thursday he had nothing to do with the naming of Coshocton attorney Kenneth Berry to a vacant Ohio Senate seat.

Senate Republicans decided at a caucus to name Berry instead of Thomas Van Meter, an Ashland College deputy registrar, to take the seat vacated by the resignation of Sen. James Leedy, R-19 Wooster.

Andrews told newsmen Senate Republicans made the decision on their own after county GOP chairmen were deadlocked between Berry and Van Meter.

Several GOP Chairmen in counties affected by the switch reportedly preferred Van Meter. Some felt Andrews pressured Senate Republicans into approving Berry's appointment, despite their recommendation.

Andrews said chairmen in counties which will be included in the 19th District as it has been redrawn by the State Apportionment Board were consulted in the selection, but it was decided that the chairmen in the six counties that now make up the district were to make the final decision.

Andrews said the six chairmen deadlocked, 3-3 on the choice, and he asked Senate Majority Leader Theodore Gray, R-3 Piqua, to have its caucus elect a replacement without recommendation from the county chairmen.

We received a letter from a couple of 11-year-old boys the other day and after reading it decided the youngsters had some merit.

Here is the letter exactly as it was delivered to us:

Dear Sir,
There are some of us boys who have a problem. Every Saturday there is practice for elementary boys. It is a basketball practice. Some of the boys are better than others. For example, my friend and I played three minutes in two games while another boy, on our team, played 26 minutes in two games. We would like to know how we can learn if we can't even barely play. We have even talked to the coach about this problem. It seems like the coach doesn't care about teaching us when he's supposed to. It looks like all he cares about is winning. How can we learn if we can't play?

We have not used the boys names because as one mother said to us, "If you put their names in the paper they probably won't even get to play three minutes."

We have to go along with the youngsters as we have always felt you have to get into the water to learn to swim and the only thing you learn to do by sitting on the bench is how to sit on the bench.

These boys are there to learn the game and the job of the coaches is to teach them.

Unfortunately, some of the coaches get carried away and turn what should be a learning program into a game of winning at all costs.

Winning is the name of the game — But these boys are now at the stage where they have to be taught the fundamentals so when the time comes they will have the necessary ability to be winners.

They must all get a chance to perform as this is the only way to learn and coaches could be overlooking another Wilt Chamberlain in the meantime.

We look back to the College All-Star football game when the college coaches didn't use Gale Sayers because they felt he couldn't run against the Pros and he sat on the bench.

Boy, were they wrong — Sayers went to the Chicago Bears and everyone knows what he did there.

So don't overlook anyone — If they come to practice then they deserve the chance to play and learn the game.

Our little gem of information — Estonia took part in the Olympic ceremony at Chamonix, France in 1924, but not a single Estonian appeared in the games — How's that grab you as a hot news item?

Our "fearless" forecast — Circleville will take the wind out of the Hurricane . . . Teays Valley will rip the Rangers of Hamilton Twp. . . Braves will pick up a pair against Laurelville and Huntington . . . Westfall could edge Pickett but look out for Greenfield . . . Buckeyes over Michigan . . . Billy Casper could provide the harmony in the Bing Crosby . . . Don't say we didn't tell you — Cowboys have too many guns for the Dolphins.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Super Bowl Not 'Just Game' For Landry

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "This is the ultimate—it's not just another game," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

For the Cowboys and Miami Dolphins, the ultimate—the kickoff for Super Bowl V—arrives Sunday in Tulane Stadium at 2:30 p.m., EST, with national television coverage by CBS.

"You try to convince yourself that this is just one more game. You try to say you've got to look at it the way you look at any other one," says Landry.

"But you just can't, no matter how much you try. Let's face it, this is what it's all about. This is what 26 teams are shooting for at the start of the season."

For the Dolphins, a relatively young squad which has rocketed from an also-ran to the ultimate in just two seasons, it's a new experience.

For the Cowboys, it's just one more championship—and another chance to shake the not-wholly-deserved image of "blowing the big ones."

Dallas, which went into last year's Super Bowl as the favorite, then lost to the Baltimore Colts 16-13, are the oddsmakers' pregame pick again, this time by a touchdown.

But that doesn't please Landry, who says it can work against the favorite.

"Perhaps being favored can hurt a bit. It can make a team overconfident, can make them let up just a bit — although I don't think that'll happen in our case."

"Conversely," he said, "being the underdog can cause a team to play over its head. I don't know what effect, if any, it'll have on either of us."

Miami Coach Don Shula agrees with Landry's assessment.

"I don't pay attention to odds. No team is going to lose to you. You have to go out and win. They certainly should be the favorites."

In the past three Super Bowls, the odds have had no relation to the outcome. Each time the underdog has come out on top.

Sunday's clash features two clubs with both solidly steady and potentially explosive offenses. On defense, too, they're remarkably similar, although the odds makers say it is defense which gives Dallas the edge.

At quarterback, each has a relatively young but highly polished performer.

For the Cowboys, it's Roger Staubach, a third-year player from Navy who won the starting role from Craig Morton in midseason and, with Landry shutting in the plays from the bench, has taken Dallas to nine successive victories.

For the Dolphins, it's Bob Griese, a five-year veteran from Purdue, who calls his own game.

And, in each case, it's the respective conferences' top-rated passers who will be barking out the signals. Staubach led the NFC with completions on 126 of 211 attempts for a 59.7 percentage, 15 touchdowns and only four interceptions. Griese headed the AFC, hitting on 145 of 263 passes for a 55.1 percentage and 19 touchdowns with nine passes picked off.

Each has a target for the bomb. Griese will be aiming his at Paul Warfield, only the conference's No. 9 receiver with 43 catches—but they amounted to a 23.2 yards-per-catch average and 11 touchdowns, each category tops in the league.

Bob Hayes is the Cowboys' long-ball threat. He made 35 43-catch attempts for a 24 yards-per-catch average and eight touchdowns, including the NFC's longest aerial scoring play of the year, an 85-yarder.

On the ground, the Dolphins rely almost exclusively on Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick—and they don't need much more.

Csonka, the AFC's No. 2 rusher, ripped around and through the opposition for 1,051 yards and seven touchdowns and Kiick, ninth in the conference, added 738 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cowboys have more diversity in the backfield. Duane Thomas, the No. 7 rusher in the NFC, piled up 793 yards and a league-high 11 touchdowns on the ground.

Calvin Hill, who may see limited action Sunday due to a knee injury, and Walt Garrison, shared much of the rest of the running, Hill getting 468 yards and Garrison, technically Dallas' No. 3 runner, getting 429.

And Staubach was No. 4. The rugged quarterback scrambled 41 times for 343 yards.

In addition to Warfield, Griese threw heavily to Kiick coming out of the backfield and to wide receiver Howard Twilley and tight end Marv Fleming.

Staubach, who also goes to his backs quite a bit, will also be looking for wide receiver Lance Alworth and tight ends Billy Truax and Mike Ditka, the latter two operating as Landry's signal-carrying service.

Frazier Is Favored In Heavyweight Fight

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier will enter many homes Saturday night via television. Most fight followers feel the visit will be a short one.

Talk about Frazier's scheduled 15-round title fight with Terry Daniels Saturday night concerns not who will win but how quickly will Frazier win.

The champion is such an overwhelming favorite that Las Vegas bookmakers did not establish a betting line.

On defense, the Cowboys and Dolphins finished second overall in their respective conferences. Dallas' Doomsday Defense was the best in the NFC against the rush but ninth against the pass while Miami was fourth in stopping both the ground and aerial game.

The edge the Cowboys would appear to have comes with experience. They've got an average of 8 1/2 years on defense, some five more than the Dolphins, who will be starting five second-year men. Middle linebacker Nick Butnion, a 10-year veteran, is the man around whom Miami has built its defense.

One of the Cowboys' biggest threats is tackle Bob Lilly, who makes a habit of mauling quarterbacks and stopping runners dead in their tracks.

And behind 11-year star Lilly are more grizzled veterans, including eight-year cornerback Mel Renfro, whose main assignment will be to defuse the Warfield bomb threat.

Lady Umpire Wins Fight

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's highest court has struck out the New York-Pennsylvania
Baseball League and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues in their efforts to keep a lady umpire out of professional baseball.

The Court of Appeals' 5-2 decision against the baseball organizations fortifies lower court decisions that unlawful discrimination was practiced against Mrs. Bernice Gera.

The 41-year-old housewife from Queens has been trying since her 1967 graduation from Florida Umpire School to get into pro ball.

The league and the national association, after earlier being told to drop minimum height and weight standards for umpires, contended Mrs. Gera had not attended an approved school and that her conduct was not appropriate.

She demonstrated a "procli-vity for publicity" which was deemed undesirable for a professional umpire, they claimed.

Mrs. Gera had been hired in the 1970 season to umpire at Auburn in the NY-P league, but the offer was withdrawn abruptly.

Tournament Thursday.

The event was won by Steve Doctor of White Plains, N.Y.,

ing his 26 years at Chagrin been named the nation's high school athletic director of the Brain Trust Set For Grid Clash

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —
They call Dallas' Tom Landry
"the Reverend T. L." Miami's
Don Shula is "Little Napoleon."
Landry is a tall, slender man of 47, partially bald. Gray at the temples, almost completely humorless, so soft-spoken one has to turn his hearing aid on high to get the message.

He could be mistaken for a bank clerk or a church deacon, the latter of which he probably is.

Shula is built like a fire hydrant. A onetime defensive back, at 42 he looks capable of going out on the field and swapping jolts with the behemoths he coaches. He speaks in a strong, authoritative voice, laughs and kids a lot and enjoys a reputation among his peers of being a "man's man."

Shula's chief worry this week preceding the super bowl has been an expanding waist line.

There are sharp physical and personality differences but in coaching philosophy there are many parallels between the pair who must radiate the thought waves in pro football's big championship game Sunday.

Both are strong on organization and dedication, sticklers for detail and hard work. Landry is a cold computer, criticized by some as being too intellectual for his muscled pupils. Shula is the inspirer—not in the Knute Rockne blood and tears tradition—but a man capable of exhorting others to super effort.

Shula, brown-haired, squarejawed and apparently lacking in guile, considers himself a disciple of the Paul Brown-Weeb Ewbank school, which stresses play execution and avoidance of errors.

Shula played seven years in the NFL with the Browns, Colts and Redskins, and coached at Virginia and Kentucky before entering the pro coaching field in 1960.

He broke in as an assistant with the Detroit Lions, then moved to Baltimore where he had a 71-23-4 record over a seven-year span, four times being named NFL "Coach of the Year."

At Miami two years ago he took a Dolphin team that had won only three games the season before and proceeded to produce 10-4 and 10-3-1 marks that led to this year's Super Bowl.

Shula treats his charges as adults but demands of each of them as much as he puts into the effort himself.

However, he has maintained a relaxed attitude and sense of humor that apparently has paid dividends.

Alex Karras, former Detroit
Lion turned newsman, threw an off-beat barb at the Miami coach. "Between Csonka and Kiick," he asked, "who has the prettiest broads?"

Shula didn't blink an eye.
"Both are straight arrows," he replied.

Landry, a Texan by birth, education and commitment, is rounding out his 22nd year in the professional coaching field.
He has been at the helm of the Cowboys since their birth in 1960. His career record is 88-72-6.

The last five years he has brought the Cowboys into the playoffs only to have them fall short of the big title. This has produced natural charges of "choke-ups" and "can't win the big ones."

Twelve Navy football players come from Pennsylvania.

N.Y. Rangers Beat Buffalo Sabres, 5-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — All the attention Jean Ratelle received for leading the National Hockey League in scoring during the first half of the season must have gotten Walt Tkaczuk a little bit jealous.

And given him some ideas.

Tkaczuk, one of the Rangers'
"other" centers, scored two goals and added two assists
Thursday night to lead New York to a 5-2 victory over the Buffalo Sabres. In New York's past four outings, Tkaczuk has poured in seven goals and scored 12 points.

In 1942, forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur were resisting Japanese attacks in the Pacific war battle of Bataan in the Philippines.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a wartime conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

Smoking, Light Babies Not Necessarily Linked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A University of California scientist who made a study involving 5,077 women has concluded tentatively that cigarette smoking might not interfere with development of an unborn child, as is widely suspected.

The conclusions of Dr. Jacob Yeruslinsky of the university's school of public health at Berkeley sharply contradict results of more than 30 scientific studies in the last 15 years that linked smoking to lower birthweight babies. Such conclusions have been a powerful argument of antismoking forces.

Yeruslinsky's research on the women who bore 8,671 babies was supported by the National Institutes of Health. He describes it in an article appearing today in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. A nonsmoker, he thinks his study raises important questions that must be answered before smoking's harmful effects on the fetus are accepted as a foregone conclusion.

"Because of the important implications of these findings not only to the question of smoking and prematurity but also to the other aspects of the problem of smoking and health, the conclusions must be considered tentative," he wrote in the article.

"The findings however, make a strong case for the need to investigate the problem on much larger samples of births and to include for study many more variables."

The women in Yeruslinsky's study were patients at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland between 1960-67. He studied women in four classes: those who never smoked, those who gave birth to children and began smoking later, those who smoked throughout their pregnancies and haven't stopped, and those who smoked while pregnant but quit after their baby was born.

The striking finding, he reports, was that just as many low birthweight infants were born to continuous smokers as to women who had never smoked but took up cigarettes after the child was born. Striking also, he said, was finding that smokers who later quit gave birth to few low weight babies even though they had smoked during the pregnancy.

"These findings raise doubt and argue against the proposition that cigarette smoking acts as an exogenous external factor which interferes with the intrauterine development of the fetus," Yeruslinsky concludes.

"Rather, the evidence appears to support the hypothesis that the higher incidence of low birthweight infants is due to the smoker not the smoking."

College Students Turn Eyes To Future Buildings, Autos

CINCINNATI (AP)—A superb building that would eliminate need for cars: a computerized garage recycling and collection system and a car whose snap-on parts could be thrown away when damaged were presented here by students from three universities as examples of practical future design.

The projects were on display for industrial critique under Armco Steel Corp.'s seventh annual Student Design Investigation program.

Armco pays for the materials and gives grants to universities selected to participate, but there is no contest, no prizes and no competition, a spokesman said.

The program seeks to help students learn the problems of industry and to help industry learn more about the ideas of young people who will someday be its customers and employees.

Participating schools for the event were Georgia Tech, Michigan State and the University of Bridgeport, Conn. About 50 senior design students from each school participated.

Perhaps the most intriguing display was a large model of an A-frame apartment structure presented by Georgia Tech students. The building would bring a mobile shopping center to the doors of its tenants and eliminate the need for cars with a built-in rapid transit system.

The structure would provide apartment units on its outside slopes. It could be constructed over a super-highway or rapid transit system and could range in length from several hundred feet to several miles.

Shopping and other apartment services, including waste collection, would be situated on a platform which would move along magnetic tracks inside the structure about the height of the crossbar in the letter "A".

Rapid transit would consist of bus-like vehicles speeding through tubes near the peak of the structure.

The mobile shopping service platform would be computerized. Apartment tenants would order by punching buttons on the computer.

The apartments, themselves, include furniture that folds into the floor when not in use.

Waste in food delivery would be all but eliminated. Frozen foods would come in blocks of ice. Hot foods would come in reusable steel containers and all would be delivered automatically to the dining area.

Michigan State students concentrated on gathering and recycling waste material.

Among their ideas were a color-coded city-wide refuse collector system and a train-like method of transporting refuse from small towns to large recycling plants.

Refuse would be collected in boxes, loaded on a special train where it would be automatically sorted, crushed and shredded enroute to a recycling plant.

Bridgeport students displayed ideas for turning junked cars and appliances into useful items.

One student showed a bar stool made of a steering column and a wheel.

Senior Kenneth Benson designed a three-part tubular car that snaps together. If something happens to one part, it is taken off and repaired or another part easily replaces it.

Martin Luther King Holiday Being Urged

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says there ought to be at least one national holiday a year in tribute to a black man, "and, at this point, Martin is the best candidate we have."

Coretta King is still working to have her husband's birthday, Jan. 15, declared a national holiday. King, who was assassinated April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tenn., would have been 43 on Saturday.

The Georgia Legislature has twice declined to make King's birthday a state holiday. Atlanta public school children have the day off today as they did last year, in observance of the birthday.

Mrs. King devotes much of her time building the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center, designed to keep alive her husband's ideas and memory.

"It must be a living memorial," said Mrs. King in an interview. "It's to be a continuing legacy... a means of institutionalizing my husband's concept of nonviolent social change."

A nearly two-week long observance of his birthday began Jan. 9 with an open house at a library which houses the civil rights leader's books and manuscripts, tape recordings of his voice and a collection of paintings, photographs and sculpture sent from admirers around the world.

advocated broad reform in the "entire tax structure" to redistribute income to every man, woman and child in the nation. The South Dakotan plugged for a program of tax-and-welfare reform.

In Boston, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, the Republican - turned - Democrat, announced he will enter the Massachusetts Democratic presidential primary. He already had announced he will enter the Florida and Wisconsin primaries.

Also in Boston, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota said he might support Lindsay or McGovern for president - if "they show strength."

McCarthy added to a student meeting that he wants to examine their statements on domestic policy.

Kennedy said while making his announcement that he intends to campaign vigorously for the Democratic nominee, and added he agrees with polls showing the Democratic front-runner is Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Secretary of State Ted Brown, a Republican, was walking around the Statehouse Thursday wearing a pin proclaiming, "President Muskie. Don't you feel better already?"

"I am going to the convention pledged to President Nixon, but to Muskie as an alternate," Brown smiled.

Muskie is a Democratic presidential candidate who has the endorsement of Ohio Gov. John Gilligan.

Lt. Gov. John Brown Jr. is taking a ribbing about a news story that appeared in a Cincinnati newspaper about a speech he was to make in that city. The headline said, "Gilligan Aide to Speak Here."

Brown, a Republican, and the Democratic governor are political enemies. They are constantly needing one another.

When Brown once accused the governor of spending money "like a drunken sailor," Gilligan replied that Brown was in a position to know what sailors did.

Brown is a reserve officer in the Coast Guard.

Seat Belt Slogan Goes On Plates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The slogan "Seat Belts Fastened?" will be on Ohio's 1973 motor vehicle license plates, Gov. John J. Gilligan said today.

The governor met with safety officials to unveil drawing of the proposed 1973 tags. With Gilligan were Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady and Motor Vehicle Registrar C. Donald Curry.

The governor called the program "a significant advance in the field of highway safety—and a move in which Ohio will be first in the nation." He added:

"All of the studies made in the field of highway safety over the years have made it evident that seat belts do, indeed, save lives. For several years, seat belts have been mandatory on all cars sold in the United States.

"But it is just as evident that all too many motorists don't wear their seat belts. Some feel it is an inconvenience, some feel they are uncomfortable, but many others simply don't remember to buckle up . . . Beginning on April 15, 1973, no one will be able to drive more than a few feet in Ohio without seeing the slogan 'Seat Belts Fastened?' in front of them."

Gilligan said because of action by the General Assembly the plates will be reflectorized for better night vision beginning in 1974.

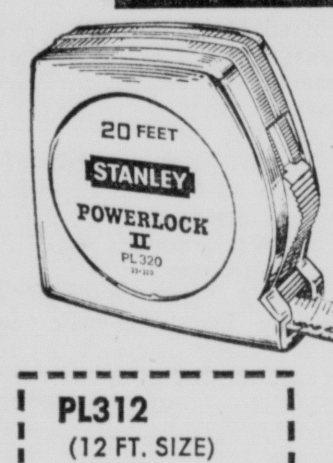

He said putting the slogan on the license plates won't cost the state a penny, but it may help save lives. If it saves the life of one Ohio motorist, it will be a successful program."
